

ABSTRACT

A laser beam receiver includes a filter device, and a photodetecting means including a plurality of photodetectors. The laser beam receiver expands a laser beam in a scanning direction in which the laser beam is moved for scanning and diffuses the expanded laser beam by the filter device. The filter device has a lenticular part capable of expanding the laser beam in the scanning direction, and a diffusing part capable of diffusing expanded laser beam.